

Technology Solutions

At Prophet One we evaluate, design, build, and integrate applications and strategic technologies for clients to take full advantage of business initiatives. We also provide consulting services to help increase and enhance collaboration, automation and simplification across the whole enterprise.

The Benefit of Your Prophet One Relationship

- More experience and a diverse set of expertise at your disposal (versus just one person)
- Continuity of support (versus having your IT person take another job elsewhere)
- Boost employee productivity by using the right technology solutions for your business
- Reduce costs by utilizing the skills of an entire IT team without the expense of hiring a full-time IT employee
- No worries about covering during an employee's vacation or sick time

Application Development

When our customers ask us to design an application system, we provide them with innovative designs that not only solve their immediate business issues, but also take into account the direction of the company and anticipated future requirements. Flexibility and scalability are the two greatest factors we depend on to insure we deliver long-term solutions and not short-term fixes. Developing new technology applications in today's highly competitive marketplace is much more challenging than it used to be. Organizations must now consider complex issues like security, branding, optimization, and integration with partners and customers. Also, many executives today are demanding a quick return on investment for any new application that is built.

Integration

In today's ever changing and rapidly evolving business climate, it is often easy to lose sight of business goals and become trapped in the overwhelming options and issues involved with the implementation of new systems. Integration of management tools and network configurations within the existing complex mix of technologies, platforms and applications, requires significant investments of time and expertise.

Infrastructure

We leverage our extensive expertise in designing and maintaining critical facilities around the world. Our team of consultants will thoroughly evaluate your current hardware, software, security schema, data communications and network infrastructure and help you develop a road map that will help propel your business into the future. Our consultants specialize in helping organizations plan for new technologies in a cost effective way while retaining existing investments whenever possible. We value-engineer growth plans to address our clients' goals and objectives, and provide real return on investment.

Staffing

With customers ranging in size from startups to Fortune 500 enterprises, we understand the ever increasing need for talented IT professionals in the development of new technologies. Prophet One can help you maintain your competitive advantage by cost-effectively delivering highly skilled consultants when and how you need them most. Prophet One helps you address technical resource requirements with contract, contract-to-hire and direct hire IT recruiting services. We invite you to see the difference working with Prophet One makes.

In today's competitive environment, the costs of hiring, attrition and other recruiting and staffing expenses are a major drain on corporations. Prophet One can provide you with the people who fit your needs perfectly. Our extensive screening process means you get quality people who have the skills you require. We also help you manage your workforce to maximize productivity and reduce costs.